Le Châtelard is a picturesque village nestled in the heart of the Massif des Bauges, a regional natural park in the Savoie department of southeastern France. Surrounded by dramatic alpine landscapes, forests, and pristine pastures, it serves as a tranquil base for exploring the Bauges mountains. The village is known for its traditional Savoyard architecture and its strong connection to pastoral life, including cheese-making, especially the celebrated Tome des Bauges. Outdoor enthusiasts are drawn to Le Châtelard for hiking, cycling, and snowshoeing, while its peaceful setting offers a serene escape into nature.
