DESCRIPTION

This renovation project includes two separate stone buildings – a detached house and a semi-detached dwelling – both in derelict condition and in need of complete refurbishment. Set on a generous plot of land, the site is surrounded by tranquil countryside and offers endless potential, whether for a permanent home, holiday retreat, gîte business, or multi-generational living (subject to the usual planning consents).

The Main House

The primary dwelling is a detached, traditional stone-built house typical of the region, with charming original features still intact. While currently uninhabitable, the building offers a solid footprint for transformation, with scope for a kitchen/diner, sitting room, utility, and 2–3 bedrooms depending on your final plans.

The Second Dwelling

Located nearby on the same plot is a semi-detached stone cottage, also requiring full renovation. It lends itself perfectly to a guest house, holiday rental, studio, or independent annexe for visiting family and friends. The flexibility of two separate dwellings adds real value and development potential.

The property is currently off-grid with no working water or electricity. Nearby connections are believed to be available and installation of a septic system will be required. All renovation and building works would be subject to local planning permissions.

The plot offers a peaceful, private setting with mature trees and countryside views. The land is ideal for a kitchen garden, orchard, or terrace – and there's ample room for parking, garaging, or further development subject to permissions. It's a superb canvas for anyone looking to embrace rural French living...
