NOTES

DESCRIPTION

This semi-detached house is typical of small hamlet houses. The ground floor comprises a living room with two through-view windows, an open fireplace, a kitchen and dining area.

Upstairs, there is a bedroom and an adjoining room with shower area.

In the basement, a beautiful cellar will be perfect for storing your good bottles.

Opposite, just a stone's throw away, is an annexe with toilet and storage space.

Below, semi adjoining, there are a number of terraced plots that could be laid out as a garden or relaxation area.

Two outlying plots are also sold with the property, former gardens and orchards in the forest.

This attractively priced house represents a great opportunity to acquire a pied à terre in the south of France, just waiting for you, away from the heat of the Mediterranean coast, come and taste the spirit of the Midi in our beautiful Occitanie region.

Location:

In a village with the main shops, bars, schools, college, banks and restaurants.

Hikers and cyclists will be spoilt for choice by the surrounding unspoilt countryside of the Montagne Noire and the Voie Verte .

Labastide-Rouairoux has a weekly market, as does the neighbouring town of Saint Pons de Thomieres, capital of the Parc Naturel Régional du Haut Languedoc, which dates back to the Stone Age, as evidenced by its prehistory museum.

Labastide also boasts a textile museum, demonstrating the wealth of know-how and industrial heritage of the Tam, as well as the textile epic for which the village is famous.
