DESCRIPTION

Located at the meeting point of Lot-et-Garonne, Gers, and Landes, this 46 m² renovated cottage blends traditional craftsmanship with modern comfort. Its restored colombage façade retains authentic rural character, while inside the spaces are bright, functional, and well designed.

The house sits on a quiet country lane with a front garden laid to lawn—perfect for relaxing outdoors and enjoying the peaceful setting. Inside, the 30 m² open-plan living area features exposed beams, a double-height ceiling, and generous natural light. The recently updated kitchen and bathroom (4 m²) include modern fittings and appliances for everyday convenience.

Two mezzanine rooms (each approx. 11.5 m²) are accessed by ladder-style staircases and currently serve as sleeping areas overlooking the main living space. Their sloped ceilings and exposed beams add warmth and character. At the rear, a small terrace and BBQ area provide a pleasant spot for outdoor dining.

An adjoining 18.5 m² workshop/studio with front and rear access offers flexibility for creative work, hobbies, or additional storage.

Set amid open countryside near the La Gélise river and the Landes de Gascogne Regional Park, the property is ideal for nature lovers, walkers, and cyclists.

Despite the peaceful surroundings, it remains well connected:
