DESCRIPTION

Situated in the heart of Gabarret, this charming townhouse beautifully combines the warmth and character of a period home with the comfort and efficiency of modern living. Offering spacious, light-filled interiors, excellent energy performance (Class C) and exciting potential to develop the attic space, this versatile property presents a rare opportunity in one of the most desirable small towns of the Landes and Armagnac region.

Dating from around 1800, the house has been carefully maintained and recently refreshed, retaining many original features while benefiting from significant energy-saving improvements including double glazing, a heat pump and photovoltaic solar panels. Rare for a property of this age, these enhancements provide excellent year-round comfort and remarkably low running costs.

NOTES

The accommodation extends to approximately 160m² and offers exceptional flexibility.

On the ground floor, an inviting living room (22m²), kitchen (8m²), utility room (7m²), three comfortable bedrooms (10m², 11m² and 17m²) and a shower room with WC are complemented by a private courtyard with independent access. Benefiting from its own entrance and facilities, this level lends itself particularly well to use as an independent apartment, offering excellent Airbnb, guest accommodation or supplementary income potential.

The first floor features a superb 40m² open-plan living space flooded with natural light. A wood-burning stove creates a warm focal point, while beautifully restored colombage walls and exposed beams showcase the property's authentic Gascon character. This floor also includes a fitted kitchen (16m²), a fourth bedroom (15m²), bathroom (11.5m²) and separate WC.
