DESCRIPTION

Entering the property through classic gates into the courtyard, you arrive at the house. The reception room is currently used as a dining room, with the staircase rising directly opposite. Turning right, you pass through a snug, office or library and continue into the well organised kitchen, benefiting from underfloor heating and the delightful light coming through the glass ceiling.

Turning right leads into another reception room beautifully finished in an elegant contemporary style and featuring a serious wood-burning stove. This stove can heat the radiators, offering an alternative to the fuel boiler. Beyond this room which also opens onto the courtyard is a cloakroom, boiler room, and stairs leading to the attic, which could potentially be converted subject to the necessary permissions.

Back to the main staircase, the first floor offers a shower room in front of you, a large bedroom to the right, and another bedroom to the left with its own shower room. The staircase continues to a superb principal suite comprising a generous bedroom, shower room, and dressing area. This is a must visit property!
