DESCRIPTION

A truly exceptional and increasingly rare opportunity to acquire a substantial Breton estate in an idyllic natural setting close to the famous Lac de Guerlédan. Comprising a traditional stone longère for complete renovation, an enchanting private lake with wooden cabin and deck, and over 18 hectares (180,000m²) of woodland, pasture and wildflower meadows, this remarkable property offers privacy, tranquillity and potential on a scale seldom found in Brittany today. The property includes approximately 200m² of existing living space together with extensive scope for further development thanks to a large convertible attic and three attached outbuildings.

Nestled in the heart of the Breton countryside, the estate enjoys a magical atmosphere where nature takes centre stage. Mature woodland, open meadows, abundant wildlife and the peaceful waters of the private lake combine to create a setting of extraordinary beauty throughout the seasons. Whether envisioned as a prestigious family residence, a country retreat, an equestrian property, a tourism project, a wellness destination or simply a private sanctuary, the possibilities are almost limitless.

The woodland element of the estate is particularly noteworthy. Extending across a significant portion of the property's 18 hectares, the trees form a substantial and carefully managed plantation comprising a variety of species which together create a rich and diverse natural environment. Now approximately 35 years old, the woodland has matured beautifully and contributes significantly to both the landscape and ecological value of the estate. The trees have been conscientiously maintained over the years, with regular trimming and...
