DESCRIPTION

Just a short drive from Pézenas, between Alignan-du-Vent and Roujan, this beautiful domaine sits in a peaceful, natural setting surrounded by vineyards and garrigue. Dating back to 1719, the property was once part of the Château de Margon and retains all the charm and character of its origins.

Accessed through gates, the property immediately makes an impact. A mature, well-established garden welcomes you before leading into the first inner courtyard, from which the main house is accessed.

Inside, a characterful entrance hall sets the tone. The ground floor offers a versatile first bedroom or lounge, leading through to a spacious original kitchen with an impressive fireplace, and then on to a more modern fitted kitchen with separate WC.

A small staircase leads to a bright and spacious living room with original features and direct access to a private south-facing terrace. This connects to a bedroom with its own shower room, WC and walk-through wardrobe.

On the second floor, an elegant hallway with original decorative details leads to two further bedrooms, a large bathroom, and an additional living room with its own terrace. This space flows through to a galley-style kitchen and a music room, which connects back to the main hallway.

The pigeonnier adds further potential, offering additional rooms to renovate, including a top floor space with windows on all sides—ideal for a studio or creative space. A large cellar is also accessible from the house.
