NOTES

DESCRIPTION

A stone house dating back to 1870, offering great potential for a renovation project.

Set in a pleasant location, this period home has retained its charm and authenticity. It is ideal for a buyer looking to create a home that reflects their personal style while enjoying the character of the stonework and the generous living space available.

The ground floor comprises an entrance hall, a living room, a bedroom, a flexible room that can be adapted to your needs, a kitchen, a shower room, a toilet, and a storage room.

Upstairs, there are two additional bedrooms and a large room that can be fitted out according to your plans. An attic completes the property, offering extra storage space or further conversion potential.

The property also includes several outbuildings and shelters—notably former stone structures—which could serve as a workshop, garage, or storage area, or be converted to suit your wishes.

At the rear of the house, the grounds offer a pleasant outdoor area with plenty of scope for landscaping—whether you envision a garden, a terrace, or a relaxation area.

The roof has been completely redone, allowing you to focus primarily on the interior renovation and layout of the home.

This property boasts genuine potential thanks to its spaciousness, outbuildings, grounds, and period architecture. It is an ideal find for lovers of stone properties and anyone seeking a renovation project with endless possibilities.

A property well worth discovering—a chance to bring your ideas to life and create a unique, personalized home.
