NOTES

DESCRIPTION

A Characterful Quayside Townhouse with Excellent Potential for COMPLETE INTERNAL RENOVATION

Set in an enviable position beside the quay in Isigny-sur-Mer, this substantial town house offers a rare opportunity to create a large family home, a multi-generational property or potentially a combination of residential and rental accommodation, subject of course to the necessary permissions.

The property is now arranged as a single dwelling but was previously divided into three separate apartments, making it particularly interesting for anyone looking for a renovation project with flexibility for the future. The house requires complete internal renovation, but the underlying accommodation, existing services and location provide an excellent foundation from which to create something special.

Generous Accommodation Over Three Floors

The main house extends over three floors, with two staircases providing access to the different levels.

On the ground floor, the accommodation currently comprises an equipped kitchen, living room, back kitchen, laundry room, boiler room and WC. This level provides a practical base for the future layout and could be redesigned to create a generous open-plan kitchen and living space while retaining useful utility and service areas.

At the rear of the property is a private terrace, together with a shed and a separate two-room studio. The studio does not currently have a bathroom, but provides useful additional space that could potentially serve as guest accommodation, an office, workshop or leisure area, subject to any required permissions and works.
